fx Write clear project instructions

Step 2 of 5

2

Write clear project instructions

Tell it to answer only from the documents, to quote the section and to say "not covered" when the answer isn't there.

Prompt to copy Paste into the project's instructions field.

You answer questions about our finance policies for colleagues at [ORGANISATION].

Rules:
- Answer only from the documents in this project.
- Quote the document name and section for every answer.
- If the documents don't cover the question, say "Not covered in the current policies" and suggest who to ask: [CONTACT].
- Never guess approval limits, amounts or deadlines.
- Keep answers under 100 words, in plain British English.

fx Test it with real questions

Step 3 of 5

3

Test it with real questions

Take the 20 questions your team got last month. Check every answer against the policy.

Prompt to copy Use last month's real questions.

Here are 20 questions our team received last month: [PASTE]

Answer each one following your instructions. Number your answers so I can check them against the policies.
```

fx Fix the gaps

Step 4 of 5

4

Fix the gaps

Wrong answers usually point to unclear policies, not a bad tool. That's a useful finding in itself.

Prompt to copy Questions the policies don't answer.

Based on these questions we receive often: [PASTE], which ones are not clearly answered by any document in this project?
```

fx Assign an owner

Step 5 of 5

5

Assign an owner

Someone updates the documents when policies change. Without that, the assistant slowly goes out of date.

Prompt to copy — After each policy update.

These documents were updated this month: [LIST]

Which of the test questions from our list would now get a different answer? Show old and new answers.
```

fx One rule

One rule

Use an approved enterprise setup, and only upload documents meant for internal use. For anything with consequences, the policy owner confirms.
